MORE THAN A STATE, California is also a state of mind; thus there are almost as many Californias as Californians. From its climate, varied topography, last-frontier geographical position and the profligate wealth of both past and present, California has developed a distinctive style that is evident in fashion, cuisine, architecture, art and business.

Within the state are several "countries," each with a different atmosphere and emphasis. The Napa Valley north of San Francisco is the primary Wine Country; many wineries offer tours. SR 49 between Downieville and Mariposa traverses the Mother Lode Country, locale of the great vein of gold-bearing quartz that lured the forty-niners. US 101 from San Francisco to Oregon penetrates the Redwood Empire, domain of 97 percent of the world's giant coastal redwoods. The resort-studded southern coastline, where sun and sea are enjoyed the year around, forms another distinct region.

Physically, California is young and restless. Earthquakes, most of them too minor to be felt, shudder along the myriad fault zones almost daily. Everywhere contrasts are abrupt. The highest point in the Nation outside Alaska, 14,495-foot Mount Whitney, is only 85 miles from the lowest—282 feet below sea level in Death Valley. Glaciers carve the flanks of Mount Shasta, while nearby, in Lassen Volcanic National Park, the lava has barely cooled. Prehistoric fire and ice left the formations of Lava Beds National Monument and the classic glaciation of Yosemite National Park. More recently created, the Salton Sea formed when the Other public lands invite exploration: Kings Canyon, Redwood and Sequoia National Parks, Point Reyes National Seashore, several national monuments and the national forests. The state park system encompasses many sites.

BEFORE ENTERING MEXICO

Your automobile insurance is not valid in Mexico. Mexican courts do not recognize insurance issued by non-chartered companies. Motorists should arrange for full coverage, including property damage and public liability, with a reliable company that has complete adjusting facilities throughout Mexico. You may obtain proper insurance for your trip south of the border at AAA Border Offices in Brownsville, El Paso, Laredo and McAllen, Texas and Nogales, Arizona; also at offices of the Arizona Automobile Association, Automobile Club of Southern California, California State Automobile Association and New Mexico Division, AAA.

IN ADDITION to its geophysical demarcations, California entertains a strong north-south division—so strong that at times the state has nearly agreed to split into two. The biggest and best known representatives of the differing partners are Los Angeles and San Francisco.

LOS ANGELES almost defies description; its size and diversity make it the great exception to almost all the urban generalities. Rather than a concentrated center with relatively distinct limits, it is a loose union of intermingling communities, each with its own individual identity and character. For example, Hollywood, movie capital of the Nation, lies entirely within the Los Angeles city limits. One can go 25 miles from downtown and still be within the civic boundaries; on the other hand, one can be less than 5 miles from the politan area is well equipped with highways and bypasses to accommodate its rush hour traffic. The second meaning of "drive" is less tangible; it is the enthusiasm with which the city as a whole seems to plunge into the business of being its conglomerate self.

The pride of downtown Los Angeles is its Civic Center, which includes the three-building Music Center and several handsome municipal office buildings. From this modern complex it is only a few steps to the very beginnings of the city: El Pueblo de Los Angeles State Historic Park. Its Old Spanish Plaza was the heart of the pueblo that was founded here in the late 1700's. Olvera Street, the oldest street in the city, is lined with historic buildings, shops selling Mexican goods, restaurants and artists' booths.

Another center for culture and recreation is cars of yesteryear. The ornate Victorian structures that sprouted from the city's roistering Gold Rush adolescence stand unabashed next to the glass pyramids and towers of the 20th century—and both seem to benefit from the juxtaposition. And for a cultural dowager city, San Francisco has spawned some strange offspring, from the United Nations to the topless dancer.

The large numbers of citizens of Chinese, Japanese, Italian and other ancestry all contribute to San Francisco's colorful, cosmopolitan character. Chinatown is one of the most famous, and charming, "cities within a city" in the world.

Within the bounds of its peninsula, San Francisco contains many fine museums and other notable attractions. There are fascinating places to shop, quaint neighborhoods to explore, and the cuisines of the world to
